Nikki Porcher

Democratic Nominee for Georgia Labor Commissioner

(Pronounciation Guide)

Nikki Porcher is a U.S. Air Force veteran, former public school teacher, and founder of award-winning nonprofit organization Buy From A Black Woman. She recently won the Democratic primary runoff for Georgia Commissioner of Labor, securing the Democratic nomination for the November 3, 2026 general election.

Her background is in building fair labor systems, expanding equitable opportunity, and strengthening local economies through data-driven policy.

As a small business advocate, Nikki has supported over 700 business owners, by providing funding, training, and certification pathways that help them grow and hire more employees.

Over the last decade, Nikki has:

- Helped business owners generate more than $6.12 million in revenue.
- Built a community of 280,200 supporters and allies.
- Secured 16 partnerships with major organizations like PayPal, Goldman Sachs and H&M; government agencies like the IRS and the FTC, and programs like the Biden Administration's White House Initiative on Advancing Educational Excellence, Equity, and Economic Opportunity for Black Americans.
- Won 11 awards, including Woman of the Year Government or Nonprofit, Achievement in Diversity & Inclusion, and Social Activist of the Year.

CAREER OF SERVICE

Throughout her career, Nikki has taken has worked in service of others. She served her country for 8 years, stationed at Robins Air Force Base in Warner Robins, GA and deployed to Iraq and Afghanistan.

While working at Macon Habitat For Humanity, she connected families to job opportunities, housing, and resources. And as a public school teacher, she created skill-building incubators and mentored students while serving in the Dekalb County School District.

Nikki's work across service, education, and business has always centered on the principle that when people have access to fair systems and real support, they thrive.

Nikki is running for Georgia Labor Commissioner to put people first, by protecting workers and ensuring the Department of Labor works for every community across the state.

NIKKI'S PRIORITIES

- Access that reaches people: Streamlining the Department of Labor so Georgians can easily get the benefits, training, and job support they need.
- Workforce development that works: Building partnerships that lead to real jobs with livable wages and modern skills.
- Childcare that keeps Georgia working: Partnering with employers and communities to make child care accessible, affordable, and part of our workforce strategy.
- Small businesses as job creators: Elevating small businesses as a cornerstone of Georgia's workforce strategy.
- Fair pay and safe workplaces: Ensuring Georgia's workers are treated with respect, paid fairly, and protected on the job.

ROAD TO THE GENERAL ELECTION

Campaign By The Numbers

16,500	76	247	624
miles traveled	counties visted	community events	voter education resources

"I've been a teacher in our public schools, served in the military, built a business, and, like many others, I've also been unemployed. I've seen every side of Georgia's workforce. I've experienced what works and what doesn't. I know what it takes to create opportunity because I've done it.

As Georgia's next Labor Commissioner, I'll use this experience and dedication to rebuild trust and make the Department of Labor work for everyone."

~ Nikki Porcher

Nikki with her son, who graduated from and currently serves in the U.S. Army

BUILDING A GEORGIA WHERE WORK WORKS FOR EVERYONE

For interviews or more information, please contact Porcher For Georgia at info@voteporcher4ga.com.

Nikki Porcher is building a Georgia where work works for everyone and welcomes the chance to speak with you. Learn more at Vote4Nikki.com.

NIKKI PORCHER
FOR GEORGIA LABOR COMMISSIONER

Get In Touch:

info@voteporcher4ga.com

(404) 532-9451

Vote4Nikki.com